

Welcome to Madrid

With a decor inspired by an old train station, this international bar is famous for its welcoming atmosphere and wide range of beers, which can be drunk with home-made hamburgers, hot dogs, salads and a selection of Central European dishes for diners to share, as well as desserts, coffee and milk shakes.

Located near Gran Vía, one of its distinctive features is the live performances staged there, which include concerts, monologues (some in English, with native comedians) and a variety of theatrical events.

You can also watch major sporting events on its giant screens.
