

Welcome to Madrid

La Buena Vida was a café and a bookshop in Ópera, which became a meeting place for lovers of literature or good coffee or both. Today, they continue to transmit and share the same passion, from the Cine Doré film library. This bookshop has its space in the entrance foyer. Here, it places greater focus on the topic of cinema, given that it's located in the film library. As far as everything else is concerned, it's still a meeting place, for people going to see films at the film library and anyone who is moved by their love for culture in general.

They still offer the same services: order requests, collection of reserved books, bonuses for making purchases, etc.
